NEWS of the WEEK

Largest Loan Since War

Washington, D. C.—March, financing by the Treasury Department calls for $1,809,000,000, largest Federal financing since the war. Only about a third of it however, is "new money," the balance being for re-issuing purposes. But it increases the total national debt to $31,300,000,000, high for all time and five millions over the debt at the end of the war.

On Horns of Dilemma

New York City—Brooklyn's St. George Hotel offered a 1936 automobile to the 2,000,000th patron of its big swimming pool. Benjamin Millan, W. P. A. worker, drew the lucky ticket. If he takes the car he loses his relief job; if he stays on relief he gets no car. He is thinking it over.

New King Breaks Tradition

London, England—For centuries British monarchs have spoken of "my" Kingdom, "my beloved people." George V did it as recently as Christmas. His son, Edward VIII, in his first worldwide broadcast, used "we" in speaking of the British, "ours" as the Empire.

Mar Dies in Poverty

Naples, Italy—For nearly half a century music lovers thrilled to the voice of Antonio Scotti. After Caruso, he was the most popular male member of New York's Metropolitan Opera. At 70 he died in poverty, forgotten by all save a nephew, who supported his last days on slender means.

Millionaire Drummer

Palm Beach, Fla. — Celebrating his 87th birthday, Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia partner of J. P. Morgan, entertained 300 guests by performing on the snare-drum, which he learned to play as a Civil War drummer boy.

Adles at Odds

New York City—At the Town Hall, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, wife of Washington anti-New Deal publisher, lambasted the National Youth Administration, pet hobby of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, who presided at the meeting. Boos and cheers greeted the attack. Back-stage the two prominent women chatted amiably. "We admire the difference of opinion between us," later said the First Lady, who last year traveled 35,000 miles delivered 81 speeches, earned $24,000 for charity radio talks, wrote a dozen magazine articles and a book, started a daily newspaper column and personally answered 10,000 of the 175 letters she received after "Up" Rings Out.

New York City—Sixteen major baseball teams are warning the league for the official opening of the season on April 13th. Eleven train Florida, two in California, one in Texas, Louisiana and Puerto Rico. Among the "hold-overs" Dizzy Dean demands $40,000, St. Louis and Hank Leiber $10,000 from the New York Yankees.

Washington, D. C.—The $75,000,000 "shelter-belt" of trees from Canada to block mid-West storms, the $40,000,000 tide-recessing project at Passamaquoddy Me. and the $14,000,000 canal from the Atlantic to Gulf all seem to be in for hard going. Started by the President's relief funds, he passed to Congress responsibility for continuing through direct appropriations.

House Appropriations Committee definitely anted off appropriations for all three projects. The House can still continue them, but will drop them.

Bailley New Road Commissioner—To Consider Fire Equipment—Australian Ballot Adopted

Bethel's town meeting was a quiet affair, being devoid of heated argument although time was taken for serious discussion of several articles. Few contests developed in the election of officers; the clerk, moderator, two selectmen, member of school committee, tax collector and auditor being elected by casting one ballot. Paul C. Thurston is to be thanked for thus expediting business as in several cases he inquired of the moderator as to the number of candidates interested and when but one was made known made the motion for one ballot to be cast by the clerk. Hugh Thurston was chosen moderator.

Contested offices were third selectman, treasurer and road commissioner. The candidates for the third position were John Howe and Gordon Lathrop. Howe was re-elected with 133 votes. Lathrop having 53. John Harrington was returned as treasurer, receiving 191; Elmer Allen, seeking the honor the first time, had 31. Bert Brown was defeated for re-election as road commissioner by Howard Bailley; the total—Brown 170, Bailley 186.

The rate to be paid for collecting taxes was fixed at .008. The selectmen will receive $3.50 a day for their services and the road commissioner $4.00. All these were the same last year.

The question of adopting the secret ballot method of election of town officers was fully explained by Paul C. Thurston, chairman of the committee appointed by the moderator of last year's annual meeting. After questions and remarks by H. W. Byker, F. E. Russell and Rev. P. J. Clifford, it was voted to elect by secret ballot. The officers to be chosen in this manner are: town clerk, selectmen, assessors, overseers of poor, treasurer, road commissioner, tax collector, members of school committee and auditor. The meeting for election of officers shall be open from 8 a. m. to 12.30 p. m., and the meeting for other business shall open at 2 p. m. The above follows the recommendations of the committee as outlined in the articles in the warrant.

On motion of Gordon Lathrop, the moderator was instructed to appoint a committee to investigate and make recommendations in regard to purchasing fire equipment by the town at a later meeting. The committee appointed is: George Harlow, Carroll Abbott, and Robert Hastings.

The budget committee's advice was followed with one exception: It was voted to pass over the article in regarding raising $100 toward the support of a County Health Nurse. Mrs. Thurston of the school committee stated that under the present arrangement it is not possible for the town to receive much benefit from a health nurse as so much of her time is required in Rumford.

A futile attempt was made by Gordon Lathrop under the winter roads article to secure action in favor of keeping village sidewalks open during the winter.

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF BETHEL

There is a meeting to be held at the office of Paul C. Thurston, the Town Clerk, at two o'clock on the afternoon of March 11, 1936, for the purpose of discussing the Town's financial condition and the need for a new Town Hall. All those who are interested in the Town's affairs are invited to attend.

Auditor—Fred B. Merrill

It was voted to raise $500 for tar via on the village streets. This is a $1,000 cut from the usual appropriation. The committee recommended the lower figure in an attempt to bring the total appropriations down enough to hold the present tax rate. After a discussion in which the situation was explained by Robert Hastings and E. E. Bennett of the budget committee, the decision was made, although some felt that so small an amount was only "money thrown away."

GOULD DEFEATS BRIDGTON

Gould Academy won two victories this week taking Bridgton into camp 37-35 after having defeated Gorham on Tuesday, 40-21. The big scorers for the locals were Wentzell with 14 points and O. Robertson with 11.
Bridgton's star forward, Shorey, scored 12 points while Delano scored eight and Stuart six to keep the visitors in the running.
Gould Academy had a tan point lead at the half but due to an ankle injury to Daniels the opponents put on a spirited rally and came close to nipping the winners as the whistle ended the game.

EAMES—LANE

The marriage of Miss Glenys Rae Lane of North Newry and Theodore Eames of Bethel was solemnized at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lane of North Newry, at eight p. m. Monday evening. Gerard S. Williams officiating. The bride was dressed in sky blue with accessories to match. The groom is the son of Mrs. True Eames of Bethel and is now employed as a clerk for Mr. Hastings' lumber camp in Grafton.

COLONIAL SUPPER WELL ATTENDED

The Colonial Supper given by the Mothers' Club Thursday evening was a very pleasant and profitable affair. Guests were met by a bright-eyed "boy" of the Old South. In the person of Herbertina Norton, and directed upstairs to remove their wraps. Upstairs they were received by George and Martha Washington, excellently represented by "Doc" and Mrs. Greenleaf.

The dining room was attractively decorated to suit the occasion; the color scheme of red, white and blue being carried out in the lighted candles, napkins and even the Washington plates.

The hostesses, Mrs. Lapham, Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. Cate, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Esther Brown, led the ladies as if they had stepped from the frames of old portraits. The waitresses, Clara Gertrude, Bertha Stevens, Della Wheeler, Marjorie Berry, Mildred and Eleanor Vail, attractively attired in black and white, were as prim and as efficient as Quaker maids. Instrumental music, renditions of songs and ballads of Colonial days were furnished by Barbara Hall, Muriel Hall and Robert Greenleaf, violin & quartet of "Mothers' accompanied by Mrs. Cate rendered two vocal selections. An appropriate reading by Mrs. Clifford was well written and read by Mrs. Hastings. The evening was a pleasant success.

EVELYN PLUMMER NEW ASSISTANT 4-H LEADER

Evelyn M. Plummer, succeeds Mrs. Leona Spearin Shibles as assistant state 4-H club leader on April 1, according to an announcement from Arthur L. Deering, director of the Maine Extension Service.

Miss Plummer was county 4-H club agent in Oxford county from 1928 to 1932. When she began work in Oxford county the club enrollment was 675. Four years later, 13 new clubs had been organized and the enrollment was 929. She entered the University of Maine in the fall of 1932 to complete the requirements for her bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics and later served as temporary club agent in Hancock and Piscataquis counties. Miss Plummer then went to Rockville, Conn., where she served as home demonstration agent for the Tolland county. She is a native of Maine.

Mrs. Leona Shibles joined the staff of the Extension Service in July 1933, when she became 4-H club agent for Knox and Lincoln counties. On July 1, 1935, she became assistant state club leader. She served for a short time as acting state club leader prior to the appointment of K. C. Lovelace to that position.

Mrs. Howard, or H

Mrs. Howard, or Howard, was called by her mother the only daughter. She had Lucy Abbott born in Reading, Mass., 1878. Her education was in the schools of her native town and she had been musically trained from an early age. She took up the study of music as a pianist.

On April 23d, 1905, she was married to Asa J. Howard at the Methodist church in Northampton. Asa and his wife have since lived on the Howard farm at Northampton. There she endeavored to be a mother who were privileged to know her. She was cheerful and industrious in her home making, yet she was always ready to do a neighborly kindness for anyone who saw. Hers was a warm, friendly, social nature and a cheerful spirit. Her time was given all who needed it. She was a home. A long-time member of the Pleasant Valley Grange, she was ever a worker for the good of the community. Always doing what she could, she endeavored her in a thousand ways to be a hearted way.

Mrs. Howard had been ill for some time before she had of her recovery. She had been ill for some time before her death. She died in the early morning of January 27th.

He is survived by her son, Howard, and her father, Fred Howard, to whom she was as dear as an own daughter. There are also some distant relatives in Massachusetts.

MRS. ASA J. HOWARD

Born August 27th, 1878
Died February 27th, 1936

Mrs. Howard, or Helen, as she was called by her many friends, was the only daughter of James and Lucy Abbott Bond and was born in Reading, Mass., August 27, 1878. Her education was acquired in the schools of her native place and being musically inclined she took up the study of music and was a able pianist.

On April 23d, 1905, she was married to Asa J. Howard and came to Bethel and has since lived at the Howard farm at North West Bethel where she endeavored herself to all who were privileged to know her. Cheerful and industrious, she was a true home maker, yet found time to do a neighborly kindness everywhere she saw. Hers was a friendly, social nature and a cordial welcome was given all who came to her home. A long-time member of Pleasant Valley Grange, she was ever a worker for the good of that order, always doing whatever part assigned her in a thorough and whole-hearted way.

Mrs. Howard had been in failing health for some time but hopes were had of her recovery until a short time before her death which occurred in the early morning of February 27th.

She is survived by her husband, Asa Howard, and her father-in-law, Mr. Fred Howard, to whom she had been dear as an own daughter. There are also some distant relatives in Massachusetts.

Funeral services were held at her late home Sunday afternoon, Rev. H. T. Wallace officiating. Interment was at Riverside cemetery. Bearers were L. A. Sumner, Elmer Stearns, Leston Wheeler and Howard Taylor.

With the tender light of morning
All unbidden the angel came
And touched her lips with silence
In the Heavenly Father's name.

He waved the wand of magic
That showed to her the road
That leads through the strange dim valley
Straight on the home of God.

The dear hands lie so quiet,
Their work is all finished here,
But we know that in God's fair home land
They are busy with work and cheer.

And though often our feet may falter
And our hearts beat slow with pain,
In Heaven, where its always June time
We shall find and greet her again.

Government by Law— or by Edict?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Dominant among the demands of men who fought the Revolution was the right to a voice in the making of laws under which they were governed.

By their victory our fathers won that right. Jealously they guarded it—in both Federal and State constitutions. Under the system thus established, the enactment of law was reserved to men chosen by the people and responsive to their will.
It is the traditional American system.

But there is another type of legislation—known as Administrative Law. It is a system of edicts and decrees, handed down by rulers to subject populations. In its enactment the people have no voice.

That's one reason why so many thoughtful citizens are protesting against the flood of edicts pouring out of the offices of various boards
and bureaus at Washington today.

They realize that a whole new body of Administrative Law is being forced on the people, not by their elected representatives, but by appointed chiefs of bureaus and commissions, in whose selection the voters had no choice and over whose actions they exercise no control.

In recent years those citizens have observed a constantly increasing number of examples of extravagance, arrogance and interference with individual rights on the part of Bureaucrats who assumed, or to whom Congress delegated, powers vested only in the people or their elected representatives.

Today they see the growing threat
of Administrative Law supplanting, unless checked, our entire American system of legislation—and with it our constitutional form of government.

Bureaucracy and democracy cannot continue to exist side by side.
One or the other must yield. Whether or not we shall surrender government by the people for government
by Bureaucrats is for us to determine.

As heirs of the patriots who waged
a long and bitter war for the right to make their own laws, our decision should be a definite one.

Youth Asks Embarrassing Questions

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner
table, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Before the present Congress convened, a great many commentators forecast that a knockdown and drag out session was in prospect,
that titanic legislative battles
loomed, that almost every day would bring new headlines from Capitol Hill—that, in brief, there would be excitement, color, drama.

These commentators were not 100% wrong, but they were close to
it. The present Congress has been quiet and almost entirely without lustre, so far as the outside observer can see. Little acrimony has appeared. And debate over important measures has been a long way from brilliant.

There are, of course, reasons for this—political reasons. Those who know say that Mr. Roosevelt, with his tremendous House and Senate majorities, doesn't want any more
"hornets' nests" stirred up before election than he can help. As a result, Congressional leaders are doing their real talking behind closed doors in the committee rooms. There they are bargaining and horse-trading. By the time important bills reach the floor, everything is cut and dried. Roll calls produce a flood of "Ayes" with a scattering of "Nays," and that's that.

Why do Republicans permit this?
For the same reason as the Democrats permit it. Republican strategists seem to be just as sure as Democrat strategists that peace
and quiet is in their best interest.
They prefer to do their talking on the stump. And they too are motivated by the dread fear of alien-ating votes that might pave the way to a Republican win in November.

The new farm bill which, so far as anyone can see, went through Congress with very few ripples to mar its serene passage, provides a fine sample of the conditions described above. In the words of Time, "Pressed by sprouting cotton,
sweat and impatient farm leaders,
Senators had no more time to consider than they had in 1933. Pressed by the political necessity of advancing a bill that would result in broad distributions of cash before election day they had little time left. The outcome of victrols at the roll call could have been predicted on the basis of political experience."

The bill as passed is a compromise between the extreme of a cash payment to farmers and a loan to be repaid at the time of cropping. It is a compromise between the extreme of a cash payment to
farmers and a loan to be repaid at the time of cropping. It is a compromise between the extreme of a cash payment to farmers and a loan to be repaid at the time of cropping. It is a compromise between
the extreme of a cash payment to
farmers and a loan to be repaid at the time of cropping.

Agriculture power to prevent soil erosion. The new farm bill is an amendment to this Act, whereby the Secretary is authorized to spend $500,000,000 a year to pay farmers not only for preventing erosion, but for promoting soil fertility. Thus, the Secretary can pay a farmer for taking his acres out of cotton, wheat or other cash crops, and putting them into non-cash crops, such as clover. With this power, the Secretary obviously has just about as much influence in controlling crops and production
as he did under the dead AAA.

However, many authorities, some within the Democratic party, feel that the amendment might be given the same treatment by the Supreme Court as the AAA. Therefore the new bill permits the Secretary to provide money and other aid for setting up crop control agencies in the 48 states. State legislatures would pass laws giving these agencies powers the Secretary deems sufficient to carry out the major purposes of the Act—and "little AAA's" would be established. States refusing to fall in line would get no benefits after two years.
Proponents of the bill believe this fixes up the constitutionality angle of the plan. In that, technically it would be engineered by the states
and not by the federal government,
and so would not run into the objections laid down by the Supreme Court in the AAA test case.

No means has yet been established for raising the required $500,- million and a new bill must be passed for that. There is strong sentiment in Congress to raise at least part of the money through new corporation taxes.

Advocates of world peace shuddered a fortnight ago when the House of Representatives voted for the largest peace-time army appropriations in our history. Ominous reason for the super-budget was expressed by Chief of Staff Craig, who said, "It is perfectly evident to everyone that troublous times have again arrived in the world. We do not see how they can possibly concern us. Nevertheless, it is unwise to neglect the lessons of our experience."

For strictly military purposes,
the House Bill provides about $377,- 000,000. Non-military appropriations come to $168,000,000, or a total of $545,000,000. Navy expenditures are expected to bring total defense expenditures for 1936-37 fiscal year to about $1,000,000,000.

After the program a penny lunch
was served.

Almon Lowe of Portland was a recent guest of his grandmother,
Mrs. Abbie Lowe.

Mrs. Lee Dunham, who burned her leg badly with hot water, is being cared for in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Abbie Lowe.
She is resting more comfortably at this writing but is still confined to her bed.

The Woodstock Willing Workers were entertained at the home of Mrs. Lee Abbott, Wednesday. A buffet lunch was served by Mrs.
Abbott.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coffin,
Mrs. Alice D. Coffin and Mrs. Woodbury Thayer of Paris Hill attended the funeral of Mrs. Asa Howard at Bethel, Sunday.

Many from here attended town
meeting at South Paris, Monday,
and are pleased that L. J. Abbott was elected Selectman.

Lead arsenate is the spray material for which a substitute is most badly needed. It not only gives less complete control than is desirable,
but it leaves two dangerous materials on the fruit, lead and arsenic.

With horse production definitely on the upgrade, horse prices continue to increase. The horse cycle of high and low prices has continued with great regularity for many years.

The Cook's Corner

An Exchange of Choice Recipes
by the Citizen's Cooks

This department is intended to be an exchange of the best recipes of the Citizen's readers and contributions are invited.

For that person to whom ordinary white and dark breads have appeal we recommend

Fruit Bread
2 cups white flour
2 cups graham flour
2 tbl. sugar
4 tsp. baking powder
2 tsp. salt
2 eggs (well beaten)
1 2-3 cups milk
4 tbl. melted butter
3/4 cup nut meats
3/4 cup candied peel

Sift the dry ingredients. Mix bit of the flour with the nutmeats and fruit peel. Combine. Add eggs mixed with the milk. Stir until well blended. Add the melted butter. Turn into two buttered loaf bread pans and bake in a moderate oven for about one hour. Let stand 12 hours or longer before slicing
for thin sandwiches.

There are a couple of cooks in this town who try in vain to keep the supply ahead of demand for these

Crisp Molasses Wafers
1 cup molasses
1/2 cup shortening
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. cin. mon
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tbl. cold water

About 4 cups flour
Melt the shortening in a saucepan, add the molasses then bring to a boil; boil for 1 minute. Pour pan of hot liquid to cool in cold water until it is just warm to the touch. Pour the liquid into a bowl add the cinnamon, ginger, salt water and soda. Beat well. Gradually add and beat in the flour until the dough is of the right consistency to roll out or press into a pan
and set in a cold place for later baking. Makes about 80 cookies.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—The Duke, a pleasant, likable youth of twenty-three, jobless and broke, enters an unoccupied summer home in Southampton, seeking shelter from a terrific rain storm. He makes himself at home. Six years ago his father had died in China, leaving the lad, Barry Gilbert, to fight his way back to the States. He did not recollect ever having had a mother. During at the bedside, he is startled by the arrival of a butler, Willette; a chauffeur, Evans; a cook and a maid. He learns that the son of the owner of the house, Jack Ridder, whom the servants had never seen, is expected. His decision to bluff it out. His supposed parents have left for Germany. Next morning he

The trousers were beside his bed when he awoke.

And all that cinema nonsense had evaporated from his mind.

He squared his shoulders, and mounted down the carpeted stairs. Already he felt a new dignity; a new, stiffening self-respect. The trousers were neatly pressed, and "Good morning sir," said the butler as he entered the breakfast room.

There was nothing "make shift" about the meal. Evans had been to town for cream and bacon, and bread, and the Duke's courage rose with every sip of the steaming coffee.

"What's this?" he inquired, his eye falling upon an envelope at his plate.

"A letter for your mother sir," Willette replied. "Mrs. Ridder expected come mail from the employ ment agency, and places like that she said you can't open it sir."

Barry hesitated, then opened the envelope.

A hundred dollar bill lay before him. "Well," said the Duke with that look of surprise that came over him when he saw the money, "I'm a lucky fellow."

"A letter for your mother sir," Willette replied.

"A letter for your mother sir," Willette replied.

gan. And that was all he ever kept. Barry's memories began in Pittsburg. Stranded, Francis Gilbert had discovered that he should have a mother. The old man had never mentioned it, so his son raised the question. "I lost her," his father said.

"How?"

"In Algiers. You were born there."

It was years before Barry was old enough to put the two things together. "Did she die when I was born?" he asked then and got no answer. This was in San Sebastian, where the old man worked for an engineering concern. Afterward, they pushed on to England. From there, it was Hong Kong, where Francis Gilbert came home one night with a fever and died the next morning.

Barry had begged a clerkship in Hong Kong, and then worked his way to San Francisco. On the boat was a movie director. "You've got a great smile," he told the youngster. "I think I can use you." Hollywood, then, Youth, and looks, and the ingratiating grin helped a lot. He was earning two hundred dollars a week, sometimes, when a wallet vanished from a coat thrown over a table "in the set." The Duke knew who took it. She was a poor little thing, though, and desperate, and his Grace kept his mouth shut. They couldn't pin it on him, he said, and they didn't, but there were no jobs after that.

And so he'd come East. A little deep in the sand, that morning at Southampton, he kept thinking of the letter he'd just opened. And of his own mother. He had missed her all through his childhood, watching the other boys with their mothers.

At noon Evans brought the car. "You want to get lunch, don't you?" the chauffeur asked.

"I want to see the end of the is land. We can eat anywhere."

The Duke sank back into the cushioned seat. Along the highway they went.

The car was slowing down now, and looking ahead, his Grace saw another limousine drawn up at the side of the road. Evans threw out the door and then put his foot on the brake.

A limousine pulled in uniform was waiting in front of the other car. Inside was a spare, white-haired gentleman. And framed in the open doorway, ready to alight, stood a pale girl.

"That's the Duke's sister," said the chauffeur, since they had stopped. She was the prettiest girl he had ever seen. The Duke nodded. Tall and slim and dark dressed in an expensive of hunter's green tweed with a top coat to match, and a fine felt hat perched upon her sleek black hair. Her eyes were gray, the Duke was to discover later, and white and a little cold. Her lips were bright red against the pale whiteness of her face.

"Can I do anything for you?" inquired the Duke.

He was standing before her now, and her glance took him in calmly, unflinchingly. Before she answered, "No, thanks."

And with that, Barry felt, she crossed him from the landscape. "Yes, you can," said the white-haired gentleman. "That is, if either of you knows anything about a car. My chauffeur doesn't."

"We'll be glad to try," the Duke said cordially. "Have a look at it will you, Evans?"

"It's the prettiest," the other chauffeur told him. The new man began fussing with the engine.

"It's got to go," fumed the white-haired gentleman. "I haven't had a bite since breakfast, and I'm due in New York at five o'clock."

"Hungry myself," said the Duke. "Where did you mean to eat?"

"Twin Bays Golf Club," replied the gentleman. "It's only about three miles up this road."

"Well," the Duke suggested, "if you're in a hurry, why don't you let me take you there? Then Evans and I can come back, and have another try at this."

"That's very kind of you, but I've a better idea. You say you're hungry, too. Why don't you lunch with us, and leave your man to do the rest?"

"Swell!" said the Duke. "Evans, drive us to the Twin Bays Golf Club, and then come back to this job."

Barry turned round to look for the girl in the green dress. She was whispering to Evans, the other side of the stalled car.

Then: "You're Mr. Ridder, aren't you?" the girl asked.

And before Barry could reply, she went on: "Your man told me. I thought I recognized the car."

"John Ridder's son!" exclaimed the white-haired gentleman. "Well,

"It's Got to Go," Fumed the White-Haired Gentleman.

I am surprised! So you've made it up with your father, have you? You must have heard him speak of me. I'm Judge Hambridge."

"Not Judge Curtis Hambridge?" Barry said, omitting to add that he had seen the name in yesterday's newspaper.

"The same," replied the Judge. "Your father and I are well, we've known each other since he came down to Southampton three years ago. This is my daughter, Patricia. Put, for short, though it takes courage to call her that."

He laughed. Patricia looked straight ahead.

"Where is your father?"

"On his way to Bad Nauheim."

"That sort of his eh? Well, I'm glad you got together at last. It's been killing your mother. I suppose you're going to spend the season here, now."

"I don't know yet," answered the Duke.

"Well, I would. This is your chance. Make good, and the old man'll be ashamed of himself when he comes back. He can't get a job anywhere, have you?"

"I had a job a few months ago," observed the Duke.

"What happened?" with a disarming smile. "Did they want you to work?"

"You're being very rude, my dear," the Judge admonished. "The truth is that Patricia's rather fed-up on our young men. And she's heard a few pretty wild stories about you."

They had reached the club now. "Get into Hambridge's car running," the Duke instructed Evans, "and then you and Bates get something to eat and bring both cars back here."

A moment afterward he was writing "John Clarke Ridder Jr." in the guest book.

"Early yet?" commented the Judge. "Southampton doesn't get going before the end of June. We're opening our house next week. How's your place? Still got VII left?"

"Yes."

"Good servant Willette. How about a little salmon salad Mr.

Ridder?"

"Salmon salad—with mayonnaise, please."

He smiled, remembering yesterday's hot-dog at Huntington.

"Rather a coincidence, meeting you here," he said. "I'd just seen your name in The Globe."

The Judge's brow clouded. "Yes. Your father's newspaper. They say I'm a Tammany judge, robbing the people."

"It's always easy to work up excitement about the under-dog," Patricia cut in. "As though it really mattered what happened to the under-dog."

"You don't like rich men's sons," the Duke remarked, "and you don't like under-dogs. Just whom do you like, Miss Hambridge?"

"People who make their way," "Can't you feel sorry for people who don't?"

"Not very," she admitted, frankly. "I suppose you'll be keeping bachelor's hall most of the summer," suggested the Judge. "You'll have to make yourself at home with us. I'm a widower, and away a good part of the time, so you and Patricia can fight things out on the tennis court." He glanced at his watch. "We'll be down for good the first of next week. How about dining with us Thursday?"

"Please do," smiled the girl. "I should be delighted," said the Duke.

"At eight? Don't dress. We wear flannels most of the time out here."

"Flannels it is," said the Duke. Purring softly, as though nothing had ever been wrong with its vitals, the Judge's car drew up to the steps.

"Until Thursday, then, and thank you for the lift. I'm mighty glad to have met John Ridder's boy."

"I'm glad, too," added Patricia, giving him her hand. "Maybe I'll learn to like rich men's sons."

"Or under-dogs."

"That sounds a little more improbable," said the girl. They drove away.

"Montauk Point?" Evans asked, holding open the car door.

"No," the Duke answered. "I've changed my mind about Montauk Point. Some other day. I think we'll go home now."

A subscription was started Friday morning for the purpose of raising a sufficient sum of money in addition to that already in to at once purchase and complete the much needed equipment thoroughly good fire bell for fire department. At noon of same day the sum of $58 had already subscribed, and but a of our citizens had thus far opportunity to respond.

We have had storms, and storms, but nothing to equal the present one for many years. After three days of steady rain the meadow above the toll bridge are one sea of water. On the Grand Trunk no trains have moved since Saturday....No mail has been received at the Bethel post office since Sunday; so far as communication with the outside world is concerned the telephone is our only solace and that is partly disabled....Bethel is having an oat famine. There is not an oat in town. Woodbury Purlington have a car on the road containing 1800 bushels but it accidentally sent to Bethel, Vt.

The affirmative team was composed of Bryant Bean, as first speaker; Chase, second speaker; Stiles, third speaker. The negative team consisted of Royden, first speaker; Talbot Crane, second speaker; Barbara Moore, third speaker. In the absence of Crane the second negative was read by Henry Hasbrouck. The decision of the judges was in favor of the affirmative.

The following students gave demonstrations last week in the assembly hall: Margaret Tibbetts, Russell Burris, Irene Foster, Sally Eleanor Vail, Rosamond Foss, Major Beck, Alice Tyler, Robert Kenyon, Kenneth Brooks, Russell Courcy, Maynard Malley, Nancy Brook, Ann Lyndon.

The girls' interclass basketball games ended last week with the sophomores trimming the freshmen, and the seniors winning the championship by taking the boys 23-6.

MIDDLE INTERVALE

Morris Vail has finished doing chores on Swan's Hill for Ernest Buck and is staying with his mother in the village a few days before he goes to Stamford, Conn., to study tree surgery.

The children of this vicinity have started attending school again after a very pleasant week of vacation.

Jack Buckman has taken the job of carrying scholars.

Alvia Gilbert is spending a few days with L. C. Stevens.

After many unsuccessful ice fishing trips, Ronald Stevens and Walter Balentine accompanied by Alvia Gilbert, at last triumphantly returned and proudly displayed a gigantic 28½ inch fish weighing five pounds. They immediately began to plan more larger and better fishing trips in the near future. The only regret of the party was that the big one got away.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

The Willing Workers were most delightfully entertained on last Wednesday at the pleasant home of Mrs. Lee Abbott at North Paris. Pillow slips and other sewing was done for the hostess. As a number of members were ill the number present was not as large as usual. At the close of the business meeting a dainty buffet lunch was served. The next meeting is expected to be with Mrs. Rose Cole.

Mrs. Florence Benson spent the day Tuesday with Mrs. Velma Davis.

Mrs. Jennie Andrews visited Mrs. Zeddie Barrett at Sumner on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews and Miss Minnie Stevens have been confined to the house with bad colds but are much better at this writing.

Ernest Packard returned to his school after being kept at home for three weeks waiting for him to have the mumps, but little Ernest fooled everyone, he didn't have them.

Mr. and Mrs. Gayden Davis and baby Ethel are at Mechanic Falls where Mr. Davis has taken a lumber job. The job is expected to last about three weeks. Their small daughter Edith is staying with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Davis, so she could continue going to school here.

It is snowing hard here this morning (Tuesday) but for all of that it doesn't look as if we would have a heavy snow fall.

Mrs. Kenneth Benson spent the past week with her sister at Gardiner.

Of course everyone attended town meeting at Bryant Pond (Woodstock) on Monday. Just about the usual amount of arguments as always. Some were disappointed not to get their office that they were running for. Gerald Benson was elected road commissioner for this part of the town again this year. Reports were good for Mr. Benson for his work last year.

MRS. LYDIA WILE SWICKER

All who knew Mrs. Lydia Swicker were greatly grieved to hear of her sudden death which occurred on Tuesday, February 25, at 12:30 p. m., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bertha Burris, where she had made her home for the past six years. During her short illness of four weeks she was tenderly cared for by her daughters.

Mrs. Swicker was born in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, on December 3, 1855, the daughter of Sarah and Andrew Wile. She married Whitfield Swicker in 1877, having seven children born to them. Twenty-seven years ago they moved to Bethel, where they made their home until Mr. Swicker's death.

She will be greatly missed by all who knew her, as she was generous kind and thoughtful of others.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ethel Burhoe of Truro, Mass., Mrs. Carol Bygum of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Bertha Burris of Bethel, nineteen grandchildren, six great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral services were held last Thursday at the home, with Rev. H. T. Wallace officiating. The bearers were her son-in-law, Thomas Burris, and her grandchildren, Ralph, Franklin and Russell Burris. Interment was in the West Bethel Cemetery.

TO A MOTHER DEPARTED

Where is this lovely presence gone? Only God knows. Triumphantly it blossoms in the glory of the rose, And comes upswelling with the emerald grass in spring Or tells of its fond living in the carols sweet birds sing.

Where is this lovely presence gone? Surely God knows. Its satin touch is manifest within the restless snows Whose flakes pass silently to brush the upturned face. Whispering that passing wings have lent a precious grace.

Where is this lovely presence gone? Truly God knows. It is vibrant in a land afar where spirits find repose; But in a country not so far that intervening miles can bar me from the vision of my Mother's tender smiles.

CARD OF THANKS

We deeply appreciate the many acts of kindness, the beautiful floral tributes, and the sympathy of neighbors and friends at the time of the loss of our loved one.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burris and family

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.
Services Sunday morning at 10:45.

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 8.

The Golden Text is: "Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O Lord, according to thy word. Thy hands have made me and fashioned me" (Ps. 119: 65, 73).

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Gen. 1: 26 to 27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Question.—What is man? Answer.—Man is not matter; he is not made up of brain, blood, bones, and other material elements. The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. The likeness of Spirit cannot be so unlike Spirit" (Page 475: 5-11).

Testimonial meeting first Wednesday evening of every month at 7:30, until the first of May.

Why Maids Were Imported

Many maidens at one time were imported to Virginia to become wives of bachelor planters because the great mass of Virginia settlers were without wives, as one writer expressed it, "to tie them to the soil." It was considered desirable to provide them with wives so that they would have a permanent interest in the colony.

Why Mexicans Eat Chili

The mystery of why Mexicans eat so much chili has been solved. Tests made by the Bureau of Home Economics indicate that air dry chili pepper contains two or three times as much vitamin A as a good grade of butter. It is the only article in the Mexican diet that is high in this vitamin hence Mexicans eat it.

ALDER RIVER GRANGE

Alder River Grange met in regular session Monday evening with thirteen members and two visitors present. As the Worthy State Lecturer Hartley Stewart is to speak at the next meeting it was decided to invite the members of Bear River Grange to meet with Alder River Grange, March 16.

The next whist party will be for the benefit of the Farm Bureau and is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gly Bartlett.

Everyone enjoyed the stunts put on by the Worthy Lecturer. The grange members voted to buy a dozen brooms to help the Maine Institution for the Blind.

EAST BETHEL

George L. Haines was given a surprise party, Saturday evening, Feb. 29, by the neighbors and friends in this vicinity as he was celebrating his fourteenth birthday on that date.
